MEETING ATTENDANCE POLICY

Councillors have agreed to represent their communities on the Parish Council and part of this commitment is attending meetings to ensure they are fully aware of council business and can contribute to decisions on behalf of their community.

In recognition of the importance of attendance at meetings, statute (Local Government Act 1972, s.85) provides for the automatic removal of councillors from office after 6 consecutive months throughout which they failed to attend, unless:

- that councillor has a 'statutory excuse' (such as membership of the armed forces in time of war) or
- absence was due to a reason approved by the council or
- the councillor attended on a body as a representative of the council (such as attending a meeting of Suffolk Association of County Councils) during that period.

The reasons should be recorded along with whether that reason was approved, not accepted or whether the absence should be merely noted (where apologies were not provided). This system of recording absence and reasons ensures that automatic removal from office will only take place in those instances where the council has not approved absence (or where there no statutory excuse and no attendance as a representative of the council). The council has no discretion - the councillor by law is removed from office. A record of the names of councillors present at meetings is required by law to be recorded (Schedule 12 para 40 Local Government Act 1972) and this should be incorporated into the minutes.

The reasons for absence and whether that reason was approved in the minutes should be recorded or the reasons for absence should be recorded in the attendance register. If reasons are recorded in minutes, discretion and sensitivity, through careful wording, should be ensured in the event, for example, that a reason is highly personal or where the reason might alert anyone reading the minutes to a property being unattended.

A variety of meetings qualify as meetings attended for the purpose of showing attendance within the 6-month period:

- council meetings
- committees or sub-committees or
- meetings of other bodies with transferred or delegated council functions of which the councillor is a member.

All Councillors are summoned to meetings. This is a statutory requirement and further evidence of the importance placed on attendance at meetings. Under Schedule 12 (paras 10(2)(b) and 26(2)(b), a summons, signed by the clerk, must be sent to or left at the usual residence of every member of the council.
